Why you should study here

We offer high competence. Both our local teachers have doctorates in Early music, lute and guitar and our visiting teacher, Rolf Lislevand is one of the most prominent Early Music musicians of our time.

At University of Agder you get to study the music you love. Although we have special competence in Early Music, you can specialise in contemporary-music, classical-music, romantic-music and wiener-music.

All practicing students are entitled to have 12 lessons of individual teaching each semester, in addition you will participate in interpretation-classes together with your fellow guitar students. Chamber music is also part of the plan regardless of what degree you study.

What instruments you can study

All classical guitars including e.g. standard 6-string-guitar, multi-stringed-guitars (ranging from 7–13 strings), Romantic-guitar and Wiener-guitar.

All lute-instruments, including e.g. Renaissance- and Baroque-lute, Baroque-guitar, theorbo, arch-lute, galichon, colascione and vihuela.

Our teaching philosophy

To us you are someone special. We have a relaxed, friendly and down-to-earth guitar-environment where students and professor have close contact with each other.

To us it is important that you develop your musical skills in addition to performance-technique. Reflective-abilities is a key-word, because our approach emphasises that you make informed decisions in your music-practice.

We provide you with the tools necessary to form your own identity as a musician and to make your own, well-informed decisions.

What facilities we have

Three concert halls. You can have as many concerts as you like. All you have to do is to book.

Sound-proofed teaching-rooms, so there's no disturbance from neighbouring rooms.
